RICHARD COOK

The Warren Chamber of Commerce board of directors met Monday night and chose Richard Cook as president for the ensuing year.

Elected to serve with him were Bill Clinger, Jack Lesser and Bill Farnick, vice presidents; Bill Dyke, secretary; and Henry Powell, treasurer. Other directors of the board are Duane Wilder, Len Johnson, Bill Hesch, Ralph Anschultz, Elmer Mellander, Ed Farynowski, THAR SHE BLOWS. This thousand foot gas and oil well was shot early last Friday afternoon and is now making a good showing for owner James Pratt, of Starbrick.

Located on a hillside just above the Grunderville rd. on the Hearts Content rd., the well is the 30th now producing for Mr. Pratt.

A SLAMMING DOOR that sounded like the starting gun sent the youngest set of egg chasers off before even the cameraman was ready at the Legion's annual Easter Egg hunt Saturday. The other two age groups followed suit despite the efforts of the emcee to bring things back to a normal state.

But everyone seemed to have fun, even the adults.

Hugh Mohny, Tom Barratt, and Robert Geiger, the retiring president.

A BIG SUCCESS . . . despite a false start . . . was this year's annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the American Legion on War Memorial Field last Saturday afternoon.

Approximately 1500 youngsters turned out on the sunny afternoon to make a scramble for the 680 prize eggs that were mixed with the 3,000 chocolate eggs scattered over the football field area.

ALL OVER NOW. Yes, the Legion Easter Egg Hunt ended as fast as it started Saturday. Here you see the youngsters heading for home, or to a local merchant if they were lucky and found one of the 680 prize eggs.

ASIDES

AVOID A FINE

The Warren public library is planning a fine forgiveness day, scheduled for May 10. On this date, and this date only, you can bring that book you have forgotten to return, or for which you fear you will pay for in fine costs, and all will be forgiven. There will be no charge.

This never has happened before at the Warren library, and it may never happen again. The library can use the book. You can save the money. Remember the date . . . May 10.

AWARD FOR AWARDS

Obviously the best show and the best performer in radio or television still are up for grabs. Every leader in these fields seems to have a cup, or a medal, or a halo hanging somewhere. The latest given out were the Peabody awards, of which CBS took five trophies, ABC got two, NBC one, and another was shared by NBC and Mutual.

Represented, of course, were Edward R. Murrow, John Daly, You Are There, Danny Kaye, and Ed Sullivan. Then there were some not so well known, such as Books In Profile which won radio education honors for WNYC, and Jack Gould of the New York Times who won a special for encouraging higher standards. NBC's Youth Wants to Know also was a winner.

Now what we need is the creation of an award that will be presented to the awarding group which makes the best choices. This should provide a near climax to a continuing series that has no end.

Even attempts to find out how the public feels about it are completely confusing. The rating services fail to agree in many cases, and in fact do a very poor job, as revealed in these columns earlier. Some programs are not even checked because of the poor systems used.

But it probably is what everyone wants. Almost any top-flight performer can point to his honors, and the public will go right on liking its hillbilly, westerns, and whatever pleases it no matter who sports a trophy on their mantle.

MILK FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Children on playgrounds in this area can buy an average-sized glass of milk for about four or five cents if their playground officials co-operate with the state school milk and lunch division of the Department of Instruction. Federal funds are available to help finance such programs and dairymen already have expressed their willingness to co-operate.

The state provides about three cents for each half pint of milk. The milk is delivered to the playground by the dairy at a scheduled hour. This avoids coolers and extra labor.

Authorized playground officials soon will be invited to participate in this first state-wide milk program of its kind.

MISS BUTTERFAT

Miss (or it must be Mrs.) Butterfat of March 1957 in Warren county was No. 2862 of the Rouse hospital. Her milk was 7.6 per cent butterfat. Winnie, the property of Lester Peterson, provided the most milk among the butterfat leaders, coming through with 2548 pounds. John Nordine's herd of 23 cows provided the highest total average, 46.2 pounds of butterfat, followed closely by Lester Peterson's two dozen pastoral beauties who were good for 45.2 pounds.

AGAINST FREE PRESS

Members of the Pennsylvania state house are reported to be opposing the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association bill which would make all governing bodies open their meetings to the public and the press. The state senate passed it, 50 to 0, but the house is attempting to bury it in the municipal corporations committee.

In fact this committee apparently does not even want it on the floor where it can be debated. Included on the committee are Stanley L. Blair, of Albion, and Delbert W. Dalrymple, of Erie. The party line-up on the committee is thirteen Republicans to seven Democrats.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

POSTAL SQUABBLE AMUSES

When Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield put congress over the barrel last week by refusing to give full service unless he got more money he revealed much of the hypocrisy that is to be found in the current administration's record. Those now in charge, or partially in charge, are inclined to think of themselves as the essence of good business practices. Yet they don't even know how the post office operates and consequently were nicked for extra money by Summerfield.

As our postal system now works, the more business it does the more money it requires from the national budget. In five years of the present business administration no positive step has been taken to make the post office operate on its own receipts, with congress called in only when a deficit requires it.

We suspect that the reason is rather obvious. Though they talk of raising the price of first class mail to four cents in an effort to pay its cost, the mail on most of our desks is stacked with pieces that cost only 1-1/2 cents. This is third class mail and it jams the mail boxes with an overload of unadulterated sales gimmicks.

This major portion of the mail is nothing but business. Firms throughout the nation are utilizing our postal service to finance their approach to potential customers. These firms represent some mighty big operators who in turn make fairly large contributions to political war chests. They wouldn't be happy with major increases that would make them pay their fair share of the postal costs.

Our big business administration is well aware of this and nothing is done. All the appeals of the post office officials will go unheeded. An antique postal system that has had little new added to it since 1940 attempts to serve an ever growing population and a resulting increase of third class mail.

The service today is the worst we have seen. The system is bursting at the seams with increased volume, and the framework for handling it which could be removed from politics and made truly efficient and self-sustaining in a business-like manner is ignored by the congressional subjects of big business who prefer it this way.

The Warren post office has proved to be highly efficient within our experience, but after the mail leaves this county we some times wonder what happens to it. We have mail subscribers who a few years ago were getting their papers within two days of the mailing date and now are lucky to receive it in a week!

The price that the press pays on mail is so small it doesn't even figure in the budget of the average newspaper. But the press has given strong support to the present administration and most politicians are very sensitive to it in any year or season. You won't find many elected officials who will suggest that the press should pay more for mail delivery. And certainly few will suggest it should pay enough to finance its handling by hard pressed mail clerks.

There is another side to the press argument. Free delivery for the news sections of a paper in the county where it is published is intended to promote freedom of the press. If you own a small press and can establish yourself as a legitimate newspaper with a bonafide circulation, the United States does not hamper you with high mail costs. It is a strong argument in favor of the low postal rate for news mediums.

However, it could be safely increased far above its present rate and would harm no one, and the loudest squawk would be heard from the metropolitan press with its fifty page editions, of which over sixty per cent is advertising, and whose weight makes the cost grow a bit. However, it is well covered by high prices and lucrative advertising receipts.

The postmaster general has been fighting for increases ever since he took office and slight ones have been allowed in second and third class. With third class accounting for the largest proportion of the increased mail load and with its obvious commercial flavor, we believe a business administration should be increasing this class to a point where it will pay its own way.

The same goes for the second class. If the cost of mailing magazines, newspapers, and other periodicals was to go up the sixty per cent which post office officials recommend, the increased cost would not be of major proportions when considered on the price per copy level.

Of course the customer will pay the price. Your subscription prices will go up and the price you pay for mail order merchandise will jump up a few pennies, but the difference should not frighten any well established business.

The trouble is we look at these figures in large totals. We hear that the price of mail for some major paper will go up a million dollars a year. But the paper may have several million subscribers and a year includes many million daily copies. The paper would not need increase its price more than a few pennies per year for each reader to do the job.

Any way you figure it some one must pay. Either the taxpayers must pay the cost of private business sales by mail and the cost of periodicals, or the specific customers must pay. There is something inconsistent about those who say they oppose government competition with business failing to do something about making a government department operate on its own income. Why the subsidy for the post office while such projects as the TVA pay their own way through income from the customers served? The same administration which attacks TVA does nothing about the post office.

There is no reason why the post office cannot operate on its own receipts and in balance. No reason except that the present administration will not do anything that will nick business for an additional dollar, though it will parade as the champion of business methods. And there is the reason that always is with us. Politicians are afraid to change the post office set-up. It wouldn't be popular with powerful contributors and it would hamper politics by removing another spot of patronage.

THE TEENAGE SENSATION OF TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What on earth, I kept wondering, did the present teenage set think of "The Gene Austin Story" the other night on Goodyear Playhouse?

Gene Austin was the singing idol of my own teen years
and I suppose, by present teen standards, a square on all counts. For one thing, he was a tenor, a classification that has long since passed
into popular limbo. He had a sweet true voice and this is an age where anything under a scream puts the crowd to sleep.

In the Goodyear drama, Austin was played -- and very well too -- by George Grizzard but he was sung pre-recorded by Gene Austin himself. At the risk of being considered a hopelessly archaic old gaffer, I want to say that he still sounds great. Even better were the songs which are still closely identified with him (some of which he wrote) -- "My Blue Heaven",
"How Come You Do Me Like You Do", "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi",
"Ramona", "Melancholy Baby",
"Lonesome Road", "I'm Through With Love", "When My Sugar Walks Down The Street", "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby", "Five Feet Two, Eyes of Blue", "Sleepy Time Gal", "Ain't
She Sweet", "Muddy Waters", "Bye
Bye Blackbird", and "Sunday."

There isn't a song in that group that won't bring a dreamy look to anyone over forty and to quite a few people under it, too. Many of them are standards familiar to all generations and they're all fine songs. Singing those songs in his sweet bayou tenor which he had first tried on the public in a bawdy house, Austin sold 86,000,000 records in six years, a record that puts to shame the combined records sales of Elvis Presley, Pat Boone, Frank Sinatra and the entire present generation of singers. (And records then cost 75 cents which I'd say was roughly the equivalent of $5 to a teenager today.) Today a singer is fairly sensational with a million-sale record; Austin's "My Blue Heaven" sold 7,000,000 alligators.

Popular fads come and go. In the '20s, teenages had "My Blue Heaven" and Gene Austin. Today the teenages have Elvis Presley and "All Shook Up". Well, medieval as our songs may sound to the present crop of teenages, they are still eminently singable. What I would like to know is this: do you think that twenty-five years from now there will be a TV drama about Elvis Presley singing "All Shook Up"?

Do you think "Rock Rock Rock"
CAN be revived twenty-five years from now without seeming just ridiculous? Or "See You Later, Alligator"? Or "Don't you Rock Me, Daddy-O"? Of course, I could be wrong. Maybe they'll all sound like great sentimental songs twenty-five years from now -- but I greatly doubt it. At least my generation can look the present crop in the eye when a band plays "Sleepy Time Gal" and claim the song with some price. I'd hate to be held responsible -- twenty-five years from now -- for "All Shook Up."

Besides containing some wonderful songs, "The Gene Austin Story" was a thoroughly absorbing TV drama. Its author Ernest Kinoy, has a fine ear for the argot of Tin Pan Alley and also for Austin's back country patois. It was the story of a New Orleans lad who got struck by success so fast he hardly knew what hit him, threw his money around in wildly generous parties, into the stock market and Florida real estate, and drank and

By the time he was thirty the party was over. The stock market crashed. Radio murdered the record business. Actually, there is no real ending to the story.
Austin, who appeared at the end of the play to sing a new song "Too Late", didn't throw it all away and still lives fairly handsomely in a luxurious trailer in Las Vegas, and still writes songs and still records them.

But as TV drama it was a very interesting picture of an era that is long gone. As the sweet singer of the '20s, lost in his own success, Grizzard did a great job. It was very well directed by Herbert Hirsh-man.

Among items on the program will be the installation of Ray Stein and Bert Levinson, of Warren, as president and secretary respectively of the council. Also to take the oath of office is H. Kanovsky, Warren Lodge president, and his slate of officers.

In Brief

NO MILLAGE INCREASE. At the present time school directors of Conewango twp. see no necessity in raising the millage this year even though a $200,000 addition is being constructed on the North Warren school site. Taxpayers were charged 20 mills last year.

Construction is well under way on the new addition, which will consist of four classrooms and an all-purpose room. The contract deadline is August 1st.

TURN IT BACK. Yes, daylight savings time has been declared in Warren from 2 a. m. Sunday, April 28 to 2 a. m. Sunday, October 27. So don't forget to turn the old alarm one hour ahead when you hit the sack Saturday night.

FAILURE TO YIELD the right of way was the charge placed against Howard Britton, 10 Clark st., after he pulled in front of an auto driven by Donald C. Wilcox, 200 Crescent Park, at the intersection of Second ave. and East st. at 5:09 p.m. last Thursday.

Wilcox, proceeding east on Second, hit Britton as he pulled out of East and sent the latter into a parked vehicle belonging to Rosanne Cochran, 110 Conewango ave. The Cochran auto was in turn pushed back into a second parked car belonging to Jeanne Marsh.

Over $500 damage was caused, $475 of which was to the Britton and Wilcox vehicles.

About $350 damage was inflicted at 9:16 p.m. Tuesday when Carl W. Anderson, Sheffield, ran into a parked car owned by Bryan Colvin, 330 1/2 Water st. The operator told police he swerved to the right and hit the other vehicle when a cigarette ash got into his eye.

At the intersection of Central and Madison avenues at 8:40 p.m. Monday, Fernando Marques Cotta, North Warren, hit the rear end of a stopped auto driven by Neava L. Anderson, 112 Central ave., causing over $600 damage.

***

A LONE CAR ACCIDENT that happened six miles east of Sugar Grove on Route 957 last Friday sent four Jamestown, N.Y., people to WCA Hospital in Jamestown for treatment.

The injuries resulted after a car operated by Robert Ricker left the highway and rolled over. Hurt besides the driver were three passengers, Donna Coletti, Patrick Coletti, and Lynn Ricker.

A freak mishap took place five miles west of Youngsville at 1:15 p.m. Saturday when a rear wheel of a trailer-tractor driven by Dalton Silvis, Leeper, came off and struck a stopped car occupied by Donald Wells, of Kinzua. There was approximately $450 damage.

Norman W. Moon, 32 year old convicted slayer of Judge Allison D. Wade, appeared before the state supreme court Tuesday and asked that his death sentence be set aside on the grounds he failed to receive a fair and impartial trial.

The Connelville man, who shot the Warren County judge in his court room on January 13, 1954, was denied a new trial by Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr., last January 10, when the death sentence was imposed. This followed several motions and examinations, by the sanity commission which delayed the sentencing.

Attorney Edward Dumbauld, Uniontown, represented the defendant and argued that a new trial should be granted because the jury was prejudiced and lacking the necessary qualifications of fairness and impartiality.

Deputy Attorney General Frank P. Lawley, Jr., who served as prosecutor in the Warren case, asked the justices to affirm the sentence and dismiss the appeal. He stated that Moon received a fair and impartial trial by a jury properly instructed by law.

The court reserved its decision.

CLEAN-UP WEEK. The Warren Jaycees' Clean-up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up week will be held May 1st to the 8th, with scrap and rubbish to be picked up at the curb the latter two days of the drive. The section east of Conewango will be collected on Tuesday, with the western section of the borough to be covered on Wednesday.

This gives citizens several days to clean up about the house and put their salvage and rubbish in separate baskets or boxes and place it on the curb.

The proceeds from salvage will be used to purchase rubbish baskets for the community parks.

NURSING CAREER. All young men and women of the district who are interested in the possibility of a nursing career are urged to take part in a program scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 14, at Warren State Hospital.

The program will be designed to inform high school students about the advantages and responsibilities of entering the nursing profession.

ELECTED OFFICERS of the Warren County Bar association at the annual meeting this week were John Stewart, president; S. W. Blackman, vice president; S. Knox Harper, secretary; and M. A. Kornreich, treasurer. The board of directors for the past year were reelected and James Foreman, Forest County, was added to the board.

The association voted a contribution to Zem Zem Hospital in memory of George Calderwood, recently deceased, and father of a local member.

CHARTER NIGHT. The 35th charter was presented to Boy Scout Troop 2 at its annual family night and charter presentation this week. The troop is sponsored by the McCurdy Men's class of the church.

Extension Of Korean GI Bill Is Opposed

Harrisburg, Penna. In a conference in Harrisburg this week, Colonel William B. Freeland, deputy adjutant general for veterans affairs in the commonwealth, complying with many requests for information made this statement:
"Hearings in Washington, D.C. of proposals to extend some or all of the provisions of the Korean G. I.
Bill for periods of from three to five years or until such time as the Selective Service Act is not in force; deserve much thought and consideration on the part of everyone concerned."

These bills numbered: S 667,
S 714, S 1095, S 1282, S 1156 and
S 166 were introduced by Senators Hubert Humphrey, Richard Neu-berger, Francis Case, Thomas Ko-chel, and James Eastland, respectively. In the controversy and debate over these bills as reported by the Air Force Times, the Department of Defense and the V. A. have taken one side and the backers of the bills
the other.

Opponents of these bills have said, "Extension of these benefits would cost approximately $540 millions a year by 1962, also that extensions of these benefits would conflict with the historical development of benefits for wartime service."

Backers of these bills feel that they would increase production of skilled technicians, increase the individuals economic capabilities and his contribution to the national income and tax receipts, also it would add incentives to voluntary enlistments.

Colonel Feeland in his remarks said: "After conferring with veterans groups, educational associates and other lawmakers, it was his estimation that, in many cases, even in peacetime, the boy who is selected for service leaves school and family life during the period that ordinarily would be used in laying the foundation for his career and future life. It is not more than right," Colonel Freeland continued, "that with the ending of service to his country, instead of just being returned to civilian life, that to him, after a number of years in the service is a strange mode of living, the veteran be given some help in this transition".

Colonel Freeland feels that the bills now being considered to continue the Korean G. I. bill or portions of the bill is the best way to do this, favorable votes on these bills would mean that the interrupted schooling could be resumed without the worry of how to sustain life and pay tuition. The home loan provisions of the Korean G. I. bill would banish the fear and insecurity of not being able to establish a home in the mind of the veteran who on release from service wishes to marry and raise a family.

Colonel Freeland appeals to all veterans to make known their stand on these bills by notifying their U. S. senators of their wishes so that our lawmakers can appraise these bills intelligently with the welfare of our country and our veterans as the foremost consideration.

Africa Reveals GOP Party Conflicts

By Doris Fleeason

WASHINGTON.--The proposed African affairs division of the State Department has bogged down in the Budget Bureau.

Budget experts are suggesting that such a proliferation of bureaus does not fit into the economy mood of Congress. They point out that any important expansion of U.S. diplomacy in Africa would be both expensive and difficult to staff.

It is assumed in the State Department that when and if the post of assistant secretary for African affairs is created, it will be offered to Representative Frances Bolton of Ohio in recognition of her pioneering journey throughout the area. Mrs. Bolton no doubt appreciates the mention, but she is taking careful soundings among her friends before she commits herself.

The gentlewoman from Ohio is enjoying a productive career in the House where she has attained the position of third-ranking Republican on the Foreign Affairs Committee and very considerable prestige. She is not anxious to exchange the substance of power for the shadow of a brief drum-beating and then dull routine.

From within the department has come a warning that she could not expect much of a future as a policy-maker. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles does all that under his hat, she has been told by an authority of the manner in which the department now is functioning.

Mrs. Bolton has been much in politics too long to deceive herself that her case would necessarily be different. It is a selfish trade and she had recent occasion to realize it afresh.

It was Mrs. Bolton who brought home to the White House the opportunity afforded American diplomacy by the celebration of Ghana's independence early this year. In conversations with the President and Sherman Adams, the mover and shaker of the executive office, she insisted that it was made to order for Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and that he and no other should make the journey.

Her counsel prevailed and the Vice-President seized the opportunity to expand the mission to Ghana into a full-dress tour of Africa. It was for him a personal and a propaganda triumph of conceivably decisive importance to his future career.

It has been apparent for some time that the Vice-President has turned left for his 1960 Presidential bid. He has plainly been building the personality and program which attract the pivotal states with their crucial voting minorities.

The appeal of the Vice-President's African journey to the increasingly important Negro voters was obvious. It was underlined by his special efforts to accommodate the Negro press on the trip.

Mrs. Bolton was a member of the Vice-President's party. She was not mentioned in his report on that journey to which her ripe experience in Africa made so great a contribution. The extent to which the Vice-President and Mrs. Nixon dominated the coverage was to be expected, but Mrs. Bolton's friends think it was not necessarily that inevitable.

Will Humphrey Quit Or Conform?

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON, -- The question about whether Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey intends to resign and if so, how soon, has bobbed up again.

It always excites great interest. The reason for that is the symbol that the Cleveland industrialist has become in the Eisenhower Administration.

He is looked upon by conservative interests as their representative and champion in the Administration, and that includes business and financial interests as well as the conservative wing of the Republican party, which is concentrated most heavily in the Middle West from where he comes.

His withdrawal from the Eisenhower Cabinet would be a blow to the conservatives. As long as Humphrey is in the inner councils and has the ear of the President, they feel they have a staunch spokesman for them and an antidote to the "modern Republicans," regarded by many conservatives as being little better than New Dealers.

Consequently, every rumor that the Secretary might get out soon sends nervous tremors through the conservative fraternity. Because conservatives have so much influence in Congress and in our economy, every such rumor receives far more publicity than if it were merely the matter of a member of the President's Cabinet resigning. He has always been more than just another member of a Cabinet -- for a large part of his party, that is.

However, the real truth is that, though he is highly regarded by President Eisenhower, his influence has constantly been counteracted by the inner group at the White House headed up in Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, especially in recent months. There has been a tug-of-war between Humphrey, on one side, and the White House group, on the other, for control of the President.

We saw this blaze up in the controversy about the budget. That gained unusual dramatic effect because of the indecision of the President about his own budget. This was the first time that Washington -- and the nation -- had heard a President publicly express doubts about his own budget recommendations.

It is important to recall the sequence of events. You will remember how Humphrey, in a news conference to explain the budget, expressed dissatisfaction because of its size.

Immediately thereafter, at a White House news conference, the President also was shaky about his budget, thought it might be cut, and said the cutting job was up to Congress. A few days later the President got back on the other side. He came out in favor of his budget again.

Since then he has generally been on his own side, though he did suggest the other day how some $1.8 billion in new spending could be eliminated. This was in reply to a House resolution asking him to specify where the budget might be cut. He stuck by the major programs, however, including those in the social welfare field.

So the White House group seems to have won out over Humphrey.

The former naturally have their sights on political effects, and with such a consideration predominant, Humphrey was foredoomed to defeat. To the Adams group, it seems to be the best politics to provide for the numerous programs which this Administration has adopted from the Roosevelt New Deal and the Truman Fair Deal and which would, in the normal course of events, be the first to feel the axe.

In fact, that is what happened in the House. You could see the influence of the Adams circle in the implied rebuke to the House -- now under Democratic management -- in the President's letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn last week.

The insistence of the White House board of political strategy on the big Eisenhower budget indicates concern over the Congressional elections next year in which Republicans face an admitted uphill fight. The party's prestige would sink very low if they lost Congress again. It would be the third time in a row, and with a Republican president -- one of the most popular Presidents in our history -- in the White House all the time.

Conservative Republicans, along with Democrats, now are digging up quotations from the President in the 1952 campaign to show how he has changed, at least so far as his public utterances reveal, in the four years since.

In 1952 he attacked the spending programs of Democrats in language which not even the most conservative Republican has exceeded. He promised to stop all of that. Even before that -- in 1949 it was -- he also expressed adamant opposition to appropriating Federal funds for schools, speaking as president of Columbia University in a letter to a House committee.

But that was another day when he was talking like George Humphrey.

BONNETS REACH NEW LOW

We thought this year's crop of Easter bonnets reached a new low. We mean this geographically, imaginatively, and esthetically.

A major share of them took one of two forms. Either they looked like an inverted mixing bowl or an upside-down cuspidor. The mixing bowls were laced on the outer edge and left bare on the base. Then milady crawled underneath.

The cuspidors must have represented the last-minute desperation of some key chapeaux creator whose net result came to him after a long night in a bar room with his feet higher than his head. In the fuzz of early morning he wrapped a ribbon around the center of the nearest brass receptacle and took his spite out on an unhappy romance by figuratively dunking his jiltor into the thing. As a result too many literally did the same on Easter morning.

It wasn't that the hats were ugly. It was that they were so ugly in such a plain and uncreative way. But here and there our spirits were lightened by those small spats of straw, perched trickily aboard a well done head of lovely hair. We just don't like our ladies hidden. And certainly not in the replica of a kitchen utensil, or worse.

NOT ON THE MAP

We just looked over a rather extensive map of Pennsylvania on which Warren wasn't listed. It was a spot on the map but it didn't rate attention by those who would have a reason for reading it.

We are referring to the Pennsylvania highways and hotels map, which also pictures nearby states and lists the hotels available along the various routes. This leaves Warren out as a stopping place. Anyone using this map will ignore us completely.

The tourist season is with us again but the tourists aren't. They have no place to sleep. They may stop on our borders for a night in a cabin, but the downtown merchants for the second summer in a row since the Carver Hotel burned down are not going to gather in many of those dollars which the visitor spends wherever he stops.

RATE CONTROLS NEEDED BY RIVER TRANSPORTS

The curtailment of rate making powers of the Interstate Commerce commission has repercussions other than those applying to gas rates. Those who enjoy inexpensive water transportation rates are afraid that it may put the barges out of business.

About 18,000 miles are served by the barges. The railroads serve 221,000 miles. If controls are lifted and a subsidy no longer enjoyed, the river transportation facilities may be put out of business by a rate war.

This would leave the railroads for freight and the pipe lines for gas and oil. And with rate making powers limited, you know who would pay the cost.

PHILIP MORRIS UNFAIR

Philip Morris, Inc., maker of the well known cigarette by that name, has been charged with discriminating among its customers in granting allowances. The FTC says it pays allowances to some but not to all. As an example, it paid $9,000 in allowances to Katz Drug Co., of Kansas City for doing $218,418 worth of business, and $1,248 to Milgram Food Stores, Inc., of Kansas City which purchased $59,028 worth.

In New York it allowed Liggett Drug Co. $75,000 for $756,148 in purchases and only $2,350 to Grand Union for over a million in purchases. It allowed one buyer no allowance for $45,148 in purchases and gave another $4,000 for about $42,000 worth.

HEARING DEVICE MISREPRESENTED

Contrary to its advertising, The Listener, a hearing aid put out by Otation, of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., can be seen, is not contained in the glasses, and does have attachments. A cord runs from the eyeglasses to the ear with a fitting in the ear. And the FTC says such glasses are distinguishable from ordinary glasses.

NOT NEW

The FTC is charging Dell Publishing Co. of New York with failing to disclose adequately that its pocket books are abridged and that they are reprints under new titles. The use of small print in inconspicuous places misleads the buyer.

If you have received one of these letters which tell you a paint company has a specified number of gallons of its product in your area and will sell it to you for bargain prices, look closely. The FTC is charging one such company, the Tidewater Paint and Oil Co., of Norfolk, Va., with misrepresenting its price and quality. Actually the so-called bargain price of $2.95 a gallon is its regular price, says the FTC. And such quantities are not available in the area, nor will it withstand adverse weather.

WANT TO SELL YOUR BUSINESS?

You no doubt receive many such cards and letters in the mail if you own any kind of business. Some may be fair enough, but it also is a means of "taking" you, says the FTC. At least two such companies take your money and do no more than run some ads. They do not have long lists of clients ready to buy and they are not protective cooperatives as advertised. Two such are Business Co-op, Inc. and Affiliated Brokers, Inc., both of 17006 East Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.

OVER-RATED CURES

You may have read about the charges brought against three makers of medicines which have been advertised over the radio as being cures for arthritis and rheumatism. This is part of the work done by the Federal Trade Commission's new Radio-TV Unit, established last October to monitor these mediums. The companies so charged with false advertising and their products, which the FTC says will not cure your ills, are: The Mentolatum Co., Inc., of Buffalo, maker of Mentolatum Rub; Whitehall Pharamcal Co., New York city, maker of Infra-Rub and Heat; Omega Chemical Co., Inc., Jersey City, N.J., distributor of Omega Oil.

The complaint says that none of these products is an adequate, effective, or reliable treatment for the aches and pains of these and related diseases. None will have beneficial effects other than temporary relief from minor aches and pains.

WNAE'S NEW SIGNAL

Warren's radio station soon will be broadcasting on a frequency of 5,000 watts, which is five times greater than the present signal. However, this does not mean that your reception will be five times as strong or that the range of the station will be five times as great. The actual increase will be a little over two times.

There are many advantages to the station, and to its listeners. If a standard sign-off time is assigned on an annual basis at some future date, a stronger signal will help during those late hours when small stations suffer much interference. The range of selling for the advertising salesmen will be enhanced because they can more confidently promise coverage in some areas.

Signals from a radio station do not go out in a perfect circle, and in the case of Warren one of the weak directions is southwest, or toward Tidioute. Many days the WNAE reception is nearly zero along the river road even half way to Tidioute. The added power will strengthen this signal some, though no one ever knows in this business until the transmitter actually goes to work.

Those with tv problems will expect more radio interference. But the radio also has tv interference problems and it will be better able to fight this off with the added power.

There probably is some limit that should be set on a local station. All of us have equal rights in the air, and all of us should have the benefit from them that we prefer. That is why we have a Federal Communications Commission to see that this business of sound and picture by way of the open air is operated in a way that will be fair to everyone.

Wallace makes the program interesting by asking direct and pertinent questions of his guests, who are completely unrehearsed.

Orson Welles will be interviewed on the premiere program. During the next two months, Wallace has announced these guests will appear: Eldon L. Edwards, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan of Atlanta; Gypsy Rose Lee, author and former burlesque star; Harry Belafonte, singer; and Mickey Cohen, former Los Angeles gambling czar and underworld figure.

Singer Baby Rosemarie, also on "Tonight": A woman driver was going the wrong way down a one-way street when a patrolman stopped her and asked where she thought she was going. "I don't think it makes much difference", she said. "It looks like everybody is coming back."

HOW DO YOU SHOWER?

The rugged outdoor type and his shower have come into full season and the science of washing the grime and sweat from our bodies now confronts us. Walking under a spray of needle points is not a simple matter. You would be amazed at the techniques used to cleanse the wide variety of peculiar shapes that are seen drenched in shower stalls.

We once considered using natural light to film a document on the life in a shower room. But one focus through our camera viewfinder convinced us that romance would flow down the drain if such revelations were to see the light of day. Though madam probably would not be any less disconcerting if her shower curtain were parted, she undoubtedly doesn't want to admit it, if she knows it, and the business tycoon in masculine diashabille would completely undermine the capitalistic system and classify us as a saboteur in the eyes of senate and house committees, who, incidentally, could use a shower.

But this piece is not dedicated to the proposition that all men are not created equal as can be seen in any locker room, but rather we are concerned with the correct biological approach to this business of soaping the body. In short, where do you start?

Some people go at it head first, sudsing their bald spot and working south through the various caverns until they vibrate the callouses of their extremities. Others prefer to jump in feet first, wend their sudsy way upward, ending in a mask of grey cream and groping blindly for the dish, while they blow about like asthmatic walruses. (And you don't hardly find them no more.)

You may think this is funny, or you probably don't, but it isn't to the man who gazes speculatively on a bar of soap and wonders with which end his predecessor finished. This is a sobering thought.

The unthinking fellow may figure that he prefers to start his bath with his more genteel parts, such as the tip of his aquiline nose, or his moustache, and polish himself off with a toe shampoo. But maybe that is what the guy ahead of you did?

Such being the case you will find the boy who starts at other extremes and suddenly wishes he had a fresh supply when the bar that has been around reaches his cheeks of tan. Even the bulgy often squirm . . . and go home with a dirty face.

But the really sanitary and cagey fellow ignores both approaches. He massages the soap cake for many minutes while he soaks in saturated joy. Meanwhile, he has cost the corporation a fair share of its soap budget, but he believes the unsanitary covering has been washed away. Still cautious he starts his chore on safe ground, such as the elbow points and the middle of his back, and then in full bourgeois stride goes his venturesome way.

You probably can't escape the inevitable, and the endospores which plagued your fellow sportsman's feet no doubt may bounce somehow into your hollow tooth and your dentist will give you the full treatment for bacillus of the bicuspid.

Apparently you can't win in the end, no matter which one you start with, and the obvious moral is that if your neighbor doesn't have the skin with which you want to share soap bubbles, bring your own potassium salts.

Meanwhile, enjoy your next shower by studying your shower room companions. Is the fellow in the stall ahead of you a reckless one with a devil take the posterior air, or is he a cautious one, with a cake of his own?

It even is possible that some day the shower bath will replace the psychiatrist's couch.

JIVING BARD

When "Such Sweet Thunder" is introduced by Duke Ellington this coming Sunday in New York's Town Hall, Shakespeare will have done everything except rock and roll. (And let us not forget that there are some ecstatic females whose idea of Midsummer Night's Dream is Elvis Presley.)

"Such Sweet Thunder" is a jazz suite dedicated to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in Ontario, and the title comes from A Midsummer Night's Dream which actually is several hundred years B.P. and was written by the old boy, just in case you got side-tracked by contemporary versions and missed your classical facts when education was passing you by.

Mr. Ellington said he got the idea when he visited Anne Hathaway's cottage during his first tour of England in 1933. Consequently he was very pleased when it was suggested he compose a work for the Shakespearean Festival.

In the suite he attempts to parallel the vignettes of some Shakespearean characters in miniature . . . sometimes to the point of caricature. Tom Patterson, who will introduce the suite at the Town Hall where Ellington and his orchestra will share the programme with Dimitri Mitropoulos, says Such Sweet Thunder proves Tyrone Guthrie's original contention when he first came to Stratford. He said that Shakespeare is every bit as contemporary in 20th century North America as he was in Elizabethan England.

We wonder if Elizabeth would have swooned over Elvis! Alas! Alack!

TALENT RECOGNITION SHOW

The tenth annual talent recognition art show, presented by the Woman's Club of Warren will be held May 20, 21, and 22, and is open to all amateur artists of Warren county. There is no age limit and no entry fee.

The aim of the show is to encourage amateur artists. They are given an opportunity to compare their work and enjoy the privilege of meeting other artists. Original work (not copies) that have not previously been exhibited in a Woman's Club show are invited, with the field covering paintings in any media, drawings, sculpture, and ceramics.

LADIES WEEK

The ladies make the news this week. Forty of them go from Warren county in a bus to Dayton, Ohio, where they will participate in their national tournament. The five teams take off Friday morning. They will bowl their team event Saturday evening, at seven, and their doubles and singles on Sunday at 11 a.m. They will stay at the Miami hotel in Dayton.

Up Jamestown way the boys must have had red faces over the week end. Margie Kovack, of Sharon, came to town and rolled into twentieth place in the Ten Pin sweeps with 1162 for six games. She led the entire shift of men who bowled with her, all from her own home town.

Phyllis Notaro, Buffalo keglerette, hit 1115 in the open event.

Meanwhile, in national circles we find Angela Mica, of St. Louis, Mo., averaging 205 for 90 games in her league activity. And Marion Ladewig has an average of 203 for 72 games. The Phyllis Notaro we mentioned above had 197 for 81 games.

And out in Milwaukee they have a team known as the Kuglitsch Shorty Rhinelanders. The name is long and their scores also take up space. They recently posted 3095. But that is only second best for the ladies. Brodey's Lanes of Indianapolis still lead with 3211.

There has been one 300 game this year by a woman, Mary Paschoff, of Granite City, Ill. Angela Mica, who carries that 205 average, also has the high series of Deceased, with statement of proposed distribution, filed March 29, 1957.

WIN SECOND MEET

Warren high track and field men continued to show superior strength in Section Two competition Tuesday by overwhelming Oil City 75-43 on the down stream oval. Last Wednesday Coach Loyal Briggs and his thinclads sped to an 83 3/4 -- 42 1/2 win over Titusville.

This Friday the Dragons journey to Corry to meet the Beavers and Youngsville in a triangular affair. Warren's trackmen grabbed seven of eight possible first places in the running events, and five out of six in the field (one of these a three-way tie).

Grabbing honors were Lindquist, 180-yd. low hurdles, 23.3; Suppa, 100-yd. dash, 10.6; Swanson, mile run, 5:09.8; VanBlois, 440-yd. run, 58.9; Saunders, 880-yd. run, 2:18.1; Suppa, 220-yd. dash; 24.5; and the half mile relay team (Suppa, Kar-kosky, Wiedmaier, Lindquist).

Kremer, shot put, 42-3 1/2; Tremblay, pole vault, 10-0; Bowen, discus, 123-1 1/2; Mohnkern, javelin, 145-8 1/2; Kremer and Berdine shared a three-way tie in the high jump, 5-2.

GOLF OPENING

The Conewango Valley Country Club golfers will open their season with their first weekly tournament and dinner, May 2. The opener will be a blind bogey. Competition will be by flights this year, with four groups established by handicaps. Matches are planned with Jamestown, Oil City, and Titusville.

The first flight and their handicaps for eighteen holes now consists of Skip Morine, club champion, and Tim Creal, 4; Pete Juliano, 5; Johnny Carter, Wally Sedwick, and Bill Rice, 6; Bob Walsh and John Trevenen, 7; Bob Anstadt, Bob Blair, and Tony Creal, 8; Harry Schmidt and Harold Smith, 9; Elmer Lundahl and Phil Pritchard, 10; Sam Rasmussen, Tom Fisher, and Dr. Yerg, 11.

HOLD DISTRICT RECORDS

Since 1955 the Youngsville high track and field men have either set or tied records in five events in District 10 Class B competition. Kulbacki (55) has the 880-yard run mark of 2:07.8, Nelson (55) and Brennenman (56) share the 180-yard low hurdles top time of 21.3, and Bailey (55) is tied in the pole vault event at a 10-foot mark.

Relay teams in 1956 took over the half-mile and mile runs with respective times of 1:37.5 and 3:41.9.

AREA TRACK SCORES

While Warren high was knocking off Oil City in track and field competition Tuesday, the Northern Area thinclads were chalking up a 67-51 season opener against Union City and Youngsville was dropping number two of the campaign 703/5-47 2/5 to Port Allegany.

FISHING GOOD

We don't know how this season compares with previous ones when it comes to counting the noses of hooked trout, but most fishermen with whom we have contact seem to be fairly happy about their experiences. This could be the weather or it could be the fishing. Probably a little of both.

We noticed that the streams were swollen a bit over the week end, but the hook and line fraternity, augmented by a large segment of the sorority, were out there in average strength, though the Easter events kept many of them away from their favorite pastime.

Those who knew where the stocking was done the heaviest naturally made the biggest haul, though we doubt if they had the most sport. This mass catching of soft hatchery stock while it still is innocent about fishermen and naive enough to swallow anything that looks like a tasty morsel is not our idea of trout fishing.

But a big majority of the populace which buys fishing licenses also likes to bring home a filled creel. It seems to be the measure of their ego if not their ability and no doubt makes the whole thing look more worthwhile to the home front which may not be in complete sympathy with a hobby that takes strong hands away from screen windows and the lawn.

There also seems to be too much competition in the fields of hunting and fishing. A friend of ours recently told us that one thing which fed him up with both sports was the attitude of those who participated. Many of them seem to be more proud of a big kill or catch than they are of a sporting shot or a well played fly.

In our book the outdoorsman who comes home with nothing but gave the game every advantage in a spirit of good sportmanship is the one who really got out of his day what was intended by those who work to create the best of conditions for this type of pleasure. In this day of rather fat larders the kill is not the thing.

NEW GAME PROTECTOR

Warren county has a new game protector, assigned to this area on April 5 when the Game Commission held its regular meeting. He is Donald C. Parr, one of a large group recently graduated from the Ross Leffler School of Conservation. He is located in Tidioute.

SAVE THEM FOR YOUR GUN

The Game Commission suggests that your hunting will improve if you touch the brake or horn at the right moment. Too many drivers fail to bother about being alert when driving through game areas, and treat anything that runs on four legs as something that does not belong on the highway and should be run down.

Unfortunately, when you kill a game animal or bird on the highway you may be killing several others. This is especially true in the spring when young ones are on the way or are being cared for by the victim.

Another signal you can use to frighten an animal is to flicker your lights from beam to beam. Slow down a bit. You may save several lives by a little care with one.

FOR NEXT SEASON

Spring releases of ring-necked pheasants and wild turkeys have been completed. Approximately 9,915 cockbirds and 20,455 hen pheasants were liberated. Also, 510 toms and 1,800 hen turkeys were released. Quail shipments will continue through early April. In all, approximately 3,700 birds, equal sex, will be released.

Rabbit trapping reports indicate that, early this year, over 58,000 rabbits were box trapped in areas restricted to hunting and released in open hunting territory. Of this number, 6,202 were caught on Propagation Areas. Last year a total of 60,470 cottontails were live trapped, and transferred, of which 6,906 were taken on Propagation Areas.

Pheasant chick applications have been received and approved for 67,275 chicks for sportsmen's organizations and 169,205 for farm-game cooperators and farmers with lands open to public hunting. This makes a total of 236,480 chicks compared with 233,759 shipped last year. All chicks available for this year's program have already been allocated. Anyone interested in the day-old pheasant chick program for 1958 should contact his District Game Protector in ample time for consideration next year.

BOUNTY FIGURES

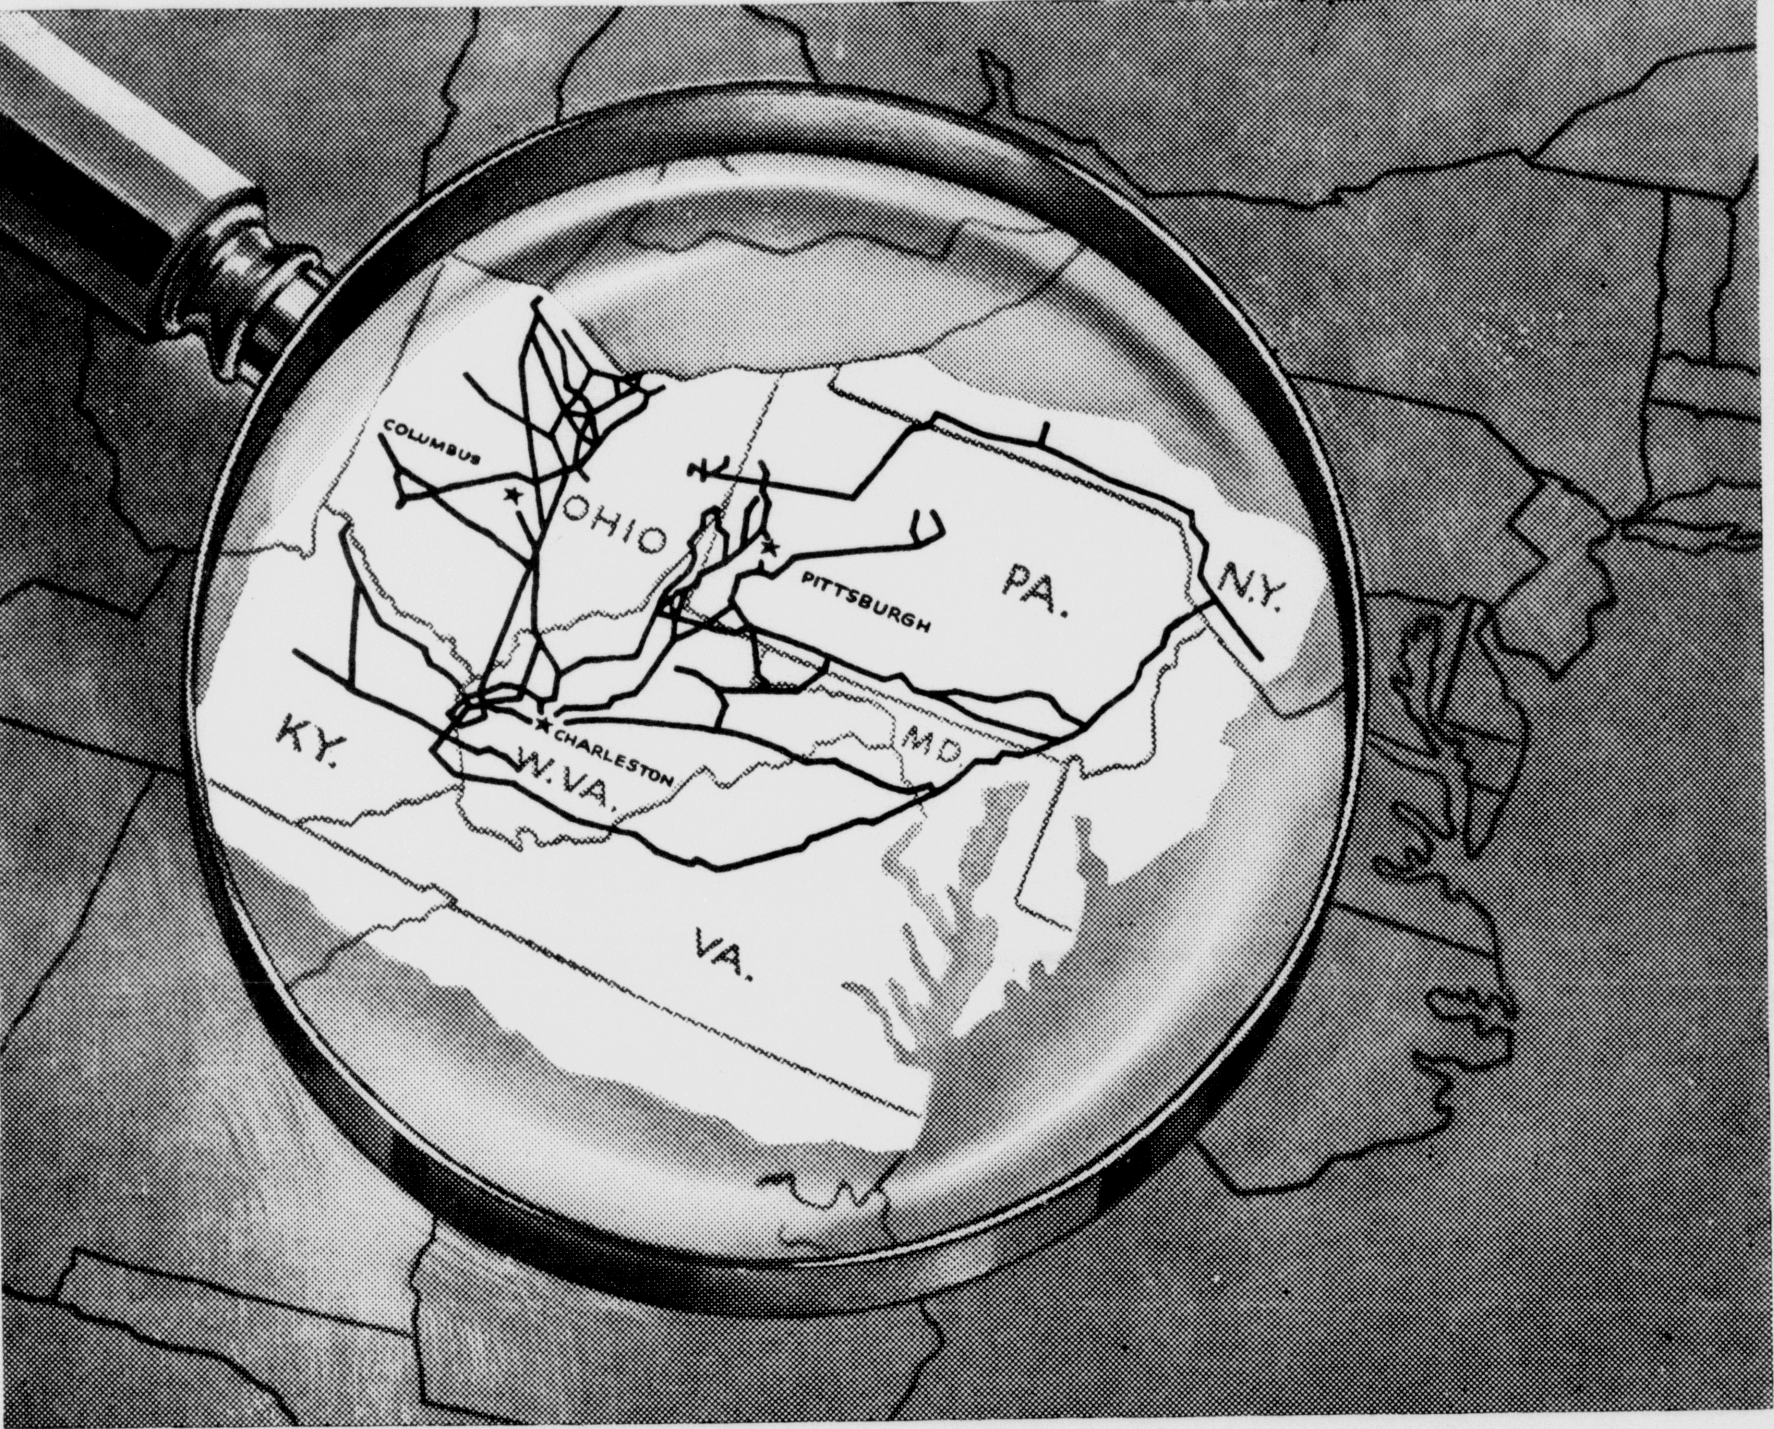

Schuylkill County accounted for the largest number of gray foxes, 83, bountied at the Harrisburg office of the Game Commission in the month of March, 1957. Somerset County was second with 69. Armstrong's 63 placed third. Bradford County sent in the most red foxes in that month, 76. Susquehanna was second with 73. Washington placed third with 61. Centre, Crawford, and Erie Counties each turned in 8 great horned owls, the highest county total in March.

The Game Commission's record shows that valid bounty claims for gray and red foxes and greathorned owls are ahead of this time last year. Ending March 31 the first ten months of the present fiscal year showed claims for 9,854 gray fox pelts compared to 9,655 on that date in 1956. Red Fox claims were 14,651 compared to 13,216 for the same ten month period of last year. Great horned owl claims for the ten months numbered 950, whereas they totaled 788 one year earlier.

This is America's Heartland where, last year, Columbia Gas System delivered more natural gas to more people than ever before. This year Columbia expects to spend about $87 million on construction . . . to keep up with growing demand!

You Live in a Very Special Part of America!

You live in the Heartland of American industry and commerce—one of the most dynamic, fastest-growing regions in the nation.

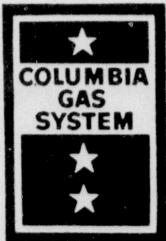

What makes this territory so special? One reason is that America's Heartland is "natural gas country". . . with millions of people working at good jobs because industry here makes such excellent use of this flexible, uniform, low-cost fuel.

Natural gas was first discovered in this region. The techniques of gas distribution were developed here. Many of the great Appalachian fields now serve as natural underground storage reservoirs . . . assuring a nearby supply of natural gas for winter use.

Families here use more natural gas per household than in any other section of the country. And every year industry in America's Heartland requires more of this clean, efficient fuel.

Yes, it's a progressive, growing region, and your gas company's ability to serve continues to grow with it! Remember: gas does it better, for less.
